MEMPHIS NEWS and NOTES

A new year and time to start on new leads in genealogical research. The January meeting of the Memphis Genealogical Society was held at the Imperial Restaurant on the 15th. The following officers were elected to serve you for the next two years:

President	Mrs. Edwin Miles Standefer
Vice-President	Mrs. R. H. Tolar, Jr.
Recording Secretary	Miss D'Ann Sullivan
Treasurer	Mrs. C. R. Gilley
Corresponding Secretary	Mrs. W. R. Blair
Research Director	Mrs. Scott M. Julian
Librarian	Mrs. Willie E. Ayres
Editor of ANSEARCHIN' NEWS	Mrs. Harry O'Hara
Parliamentarian	Mrs. Berry B. Brooks, app't by the Pres.

The Advisory Committee consists of Mrs. Lois D. Bejach, Retiring President, Mrs. Laurence B. Gardiner and Mrs. I. G. Duncan.

Not enough praise can be given to the accomplishments of the retiring officers. Their record of achievement includes the placing of several hundreds of dollars worth of microfilmed census records in the Cossitt-Goodwyn Library and the donation, by the Society, of many books of county records. These additions to the reference department of the library, added to the film purchased by the library itself, have made Memphis one of the finest research centers in the south.

ANSEARCHIN' NEWS, our bulletin which is published quarterly, is one of the best sources of information on Tennessee history available. Under the inspired leadership of the editor, Mrs. Harry O'Hara, ANSEARCHIN' NEWS has become an international publication. This bulletin is now being mailed to subscribing members and libraries in practically every State of the Union, Canada, South America, Honolulu, and the Canal Zone.

Mrs. L. B. Gardiner offered the study group the use of her home for the November meeting and Mrs. Lois D. Bejach was hostess to the group in December. Both Mrs. Gardiner and Mrs. Bejach have extensive private libraries. Many thanks for both the hospitality and the opportunity to do research among many rare and unusual volumes.

Mrs. Bejach and Mrs. O'Hara visited the State Library and Archives in Nashville in December. They had the pleasure of conferring with the new Director of Archives, Mr. Walter L. Jordan. Mr. Jordan was most co-operative and offered to continue to make available material for publication.

This administration needs the co-operation of every member. Our project for the next two years will be to complete as many family histories as possible. We hope by April to have formulated a plan for establishing a card file system on our ancestors to be used in lieu of the five generation charts. The information contained on the cards will be under the jurisdiction of the Research Director. Such a card file would enable us to be of more service to our subscribers.

Good hunting and good luck in your search for your lost ancestors.

Jewel B. Standefer (Mrs. E. M.)

OVER THE EDITOR'S DESK:

ANSEARCHIN' NEWS is possible because of: 1) you, the reader, who subscribes, thus creating the revenue necessary to publish a magazine of this size; 2) the cooperation of the Tennessee State Library and Archives in Nashville plus the material contributed by members; and 3) the uncounted hours spent by a small group of the Society here in Memphis who give so generously of their time that you might have this information in printed form.

All work on the bulletin is done without pay, with the exception of stencil cutting and printing.

We have tried to systematize our routine to make the work load as light as possible, but we still have several trouble spots. Won't you please read each item and cooperate with us in order that our energies might be expended, not on trivial details, but on a better publication?

RETURN MAIL - ANSEARCHIN' NEWS is mailed 3rd class. The wording Form 3547 Requested in the upper left hand corner of the envelope brings the bulletin back to us, if not delivered. It also gives us your new address, if you left one. Our complaint is not because you have moved, but because many of you go on vacations and have your 1st class mail forwarded and forget to say anything about the 3rd class material addressed to you. Postage is a big item with us, so please try to let us know where you will be during the four months of January, April, July and October.

QUERIES - We welcome queries from all of our subscribing members and try to allot enough space to accommodate those received. We have found that a concise statement of facts (about 50 words or less) on one family at a time gets the best results. We give preference to Tennessee families, but will print the others as space will permit.

REQUEST FOR INFORMATION - We wish we had the library and the staff to answer the many letters asking for special help. Your Editor lives almost 13 miles from the Reference and Research Department of the Cossitt-Goodwyn Library and since she does not have a private library, finds it impossible to answer the many requests. All books, exchange issues, etc. received by our Society are placed at Cossitt-Goodwyn Library in downtown Memphis where they may be used by all who come there doing research. We are always happy to send the names of members who will do research on a professional basis.

BACK ISSUES - We still have some back issues available. They are the 1957 for $2.00, the 1958, 1959, 1960, 1961 for $3.00 each year, Directory of Ancestors, 1961 for $1.00, and the "Shelby County, Tennessee Marriage Records, 1819-1850" for $6.50. This will probably be the last year we will be able to offer this set of back issues.

PUBLICATION DATE - We try to get the bulletin out on schedule, but there are times when nothing seems to go right! If you have not received your copy by the middle of the month following the regular publication date, LET US KNOW. Don't wait a year to tell us you didn't get it.

We want to wish each of you a Successful New Year in your search for the "missing links." Although we cannot fill each personal request for an article on a certain county, we like to receive your suggestions to use as a guide.

NEWS FROM OUR FELLOW PUBLISHERS:

Another newcomer is the recently organized Permian Basin Genealogical Society of Ector County, Texas. They will exchange date and are equipped to handle some research in their area. Write: Ector County Library, 7th & Lea Streets, Odessa, Texas.

YESTERYEARS is a quarterly publication for the appreciation and study of New York regional history. It contains articles of interest on history, genealogy, archaeology, and folklore. Price $3.00 per year from Francis V. Grifone, Editor, Scipio Center, New York.

We extend our sincere sympathy to the family of Lloyd I. Showers of Mena, Arkansas, who passed away October 20, 1961. The Showers published the NEWSOM NEWS and Mrs. Showers says the bulletin will be continued, but will be delayed somewhat on the next issue.

Did you know you could subscribe to THE VIRGINIA GAZETTE (founded 1736) of Williamsburg, Virginia for $3.50 per year and that you could have your queries published in the weekly genealogical column for free? Send your subscription direct to The Virginia Gazette, but send your queries and answers to Dorothy Ford Wulfeck (who edits the genealogical section), 51 Park Ave., Naugatuck, Connecticut.

We are glad to add THE HOOSIER GENEALOGIST to our exchange list. This newsy bulletin is published bi-monthly by the Genealogical Section of the Indiana Historical Society, 140 North Senate Ave., Indianapolis 4, Indiana. It is their "intention to publish transcripts of original county records (such as marriage, land, will, and probate records), also church, Bible, and cemetery records."

TOOLS FOR RESEARCH:

A member of our Society, Mrs. B. S. Blackwood of Birmingham, Alabama, was in Washington, D. C. this past summer and made the following notes on some fascinating records on the Cherokee Indians:

"Eastern Cherokee Applications," 'Special Commissioner of the Court of Claims,' and 'Eastern Cherokee Enrollment' are located in room #5 W-1 in the National Archives Building.

"There are two large volumes of Indices which give the individual's name, a code file number, and where he lived. The files are full of marvelous family data.

"The material is not all on Cherokees but many white people are mentioned such as: superintendents of the transferring of the Indians, supervisors of the wagon trains, food suppliers, etc."

The Cherokee is also featured in a new book by James Manford Carselowey. The name of the 75 page book of historical and genealogical data on this Indian tribe is called CHEROKEE PIONEERS, and a copy may be secured from the author, Mr. Carselowey, P. O. Box 156, Adair, Oklahoma for $3.00 postpaid.

A time saver - FINDING LIST OF VIRGINIA MARRIAGES BEFORE 1853. The information is arranged by county, including a brief history, date formed, and county seat of each. Paper bound. Order from the compiler: Inez Waldenmaier, Room 624, Warner Building, Washington 4, D. C. Price $4.00.

The Reference and Research Department of the Memphis Public Library (Cossitt) has received a listing of some 904 Confederate Soldiers buried in Elmwood Cemetery (Memphis). This list was compiled by Mrs. Byron G. Hyde and presented in the interest of our Society. Another gift to the Society and library was the History of the Madison Presbyterial Missionary Auxiliary (Jackson, Tenn.), given by Mrs. H. F. May. We appreciate both of the contributions.

An announcement has just been received from the GENEALOGICAL BOOK COMPANY that it has moved into larger quarters, and is now located at 521-23 St. Paul Place, Baltimore 2, Maryland. Until two years ago this firm operated under the name of Southern Book Company. The firm issues frequent catalogues of old and rare books in the field of local history and genealogy. They are also engaged in a project of reprinting a great many older and scarce volumes which can be classified as basic genealogical reference books.

The EARLY HISTORY OF WARREN COUNTY, TENNESSEE Compiled by Will T. Hale has been reprinted and can be bought for $2.50 through the Womack Printing Co., 114 College St., McMinnville, Tennessee. The very accurate accounting of names, places and dates makes it a good reference book for any historical or genealogical collection.

The 1830 Census of Grainger County, Tennessee by Pollyanna Creekmore has been printed in Vol. III, issue 20, Winter 1961 edition of THE SOUTHERN GENEALOGIST'S EXCHANGE QUARTERLY (2525 Oak St., Jacksonville 4, Florida.)

The October 1961 issue of PIONEERS, bulletin of the Birmingham Genealogical Society, is dedicated to the State of Tennessee. It contains maps, county formations, historical notes, honor roll of soldiers of the American Revolution of Maury County, Tennessee, Bible records, cemetery records, early Franklin County, Tennessee marriages, and several more items of interest to searchers in this area. Dues $2.00 annually, write the Society at 4320 6th Ave., South, Birmingham, Alabama.

Good news for Tennessee researchers -- Mrs. Chas. A. Embry, Apt. 103, Sterling Court, Nashville 12, Tennessee, is planning to have two new reference books ready for distribution this month. They are INDEX TO WILLS ON FILE IN GILES COUNTY, TENNESSEE THROUGH 1900 (price $2.50), and 1850 CENSUS OF BENTON COUNTY, TENNESSEE (price unknown). Order from the compiler.

Miss Nannie Wood, 846 Buford Street, Danville, Virginia, writes to say she is not a professional genealogist but will do research for anyone in Henry and Pittsylvania Counties, Virginia or Caswell County, North Carolina.

The Louisiana State Archives and Records Commission has compiled the CALENDAR OF LOUISIANA COLONIAL DOCUMENTS, Vol. I, Avoyelles Parish, dated 1786-1803. Price $1.75 from the Commission, P. O. Box 4222, Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

An item of interest to members or groups who own, or plan to own, a microfilm reader is the recent "List of National Archives Microfilm Publications- 1961" (Order from the National Archives and Records Division, GSA, Washington, D. C. Ask for Publication 61-12). One must see the catalog to appreciate the vast amount of microfilming that has been done by the National Archives and made available to the public at a very reasonable price. Much filming has been done of records of soldiers in the early wars, as well as many other general items of early Americana.

POTPOURRI:

Going abroad this coming fall? Why not plan to attend the Sixth International Congress of Genealogy and Heraldry to be held in Edinburgh, Scotland, September 8 to 14, 1962. More information is available by writing the Secretary-General, 6th International Congress of Genealogy and Heraldry, 1 Darnaway St., Edinburgh 3, Scotland.

Although we check and double check, we know we make mistakes. Such is the case in the 1961 DIRECTORY OF ANCESTORS. Please make a note that Carter County, Tennessee was not formed from Carteret as stated but from Washington County, Tennessee. We found the error after the book had been put together and by that time it was too late to stop the issue. We also want to correct page 5, January 1961 to read Miss Lucille Payne of Olive Branch, Mississippi.

RESEARCH IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Paper given by Mrs. Chas. G. Young at the October 1961 meeting of the Memphis Genealogical Society.

Those of you who attended my genealogical school will remember I told you that states and counties have genealogies, also mother states and mother counties, and that we do have to know history before we can successfully do genealogy. You will find that South Carolina was the mother state of Georgia and North Carolina, with the exception of the old Albemarle section of coastal counties and was at one time considered part of Virginia. South Carolina and North Carolina were originally called Carolina.

The first settlers of South Carolina were the Huguenots, who were not allowed to worship God in their own belief in France. They came in two ships to a port that the sailors named Port Royal, because of the beauty of the water. The leader of the company was a brave Huguenot named Captain Jean Ribault (Ri-bo). He steered his ships up the stream that enters Port Royal and went ashore upon a small island known as Lemon Island in Broad River, a few miles from the present town of Beaufort. There he set up a stone pillar and claimed all the country for the King of France. Captain Ribault built a fort on Paris Island and called it Fort Charles, for Charles IX of France. This took place in the year 1562. Leaving a company of twenty-six men, he sailed away to France to bring more Huguenots. The men left became discouraged over his promised return and set sail for France in boats they made. Some died of hunger, and an English ship by chance came their way and picked up those who were still alive. The Huguenots did not succeed in their plan of making a settlement at Port Royal, but the name remained in that region for a hundred years, as a memorial to the French King. The English settlers came later to take possession of the country, to build homes, and thus lay the foundation of a great American Colony.

In 1663 Charles II, King of England, gave to eight Englishmen a large tract of land on the Atlantic coast. They called it Carolina. Named for the father of Charles II, Charles I, this embraced all of the land now contained in South and North Carolina, Georgia, and the northern part of Florida. They were called the Lords Proprietors and had a charter from the King giving them power to do as they pleased. They were allowed to bring in settlers; to build towns and forts; to appoint governors and judges; to levy and collect taxes; and to rule the people who came there. The names of some of them are still in use in South Carolina. Anthony Ashley-Cooper's name was given to Ashley River which flows past the present city of Charleston; the names of the Earl of Clarendon and of Sir John Colleton were given to two of the counties; the county of Berkeley was called after two other Proprietors, Sir William Berkeley and Lord John Berkeley. The other three Proprietors were: the Duke of Albermarle, the Earl of Craven, and Sir George Carteret. The first grants of the Carolinas were given by these men and called Proprietors Grants. These men become so greedy and oppressive, from the power given them, that later they had to relinquish their interests by order of the Crown.

1669 the Proprietors sent out from London the ship Carolina and two other small vessels filled with immigrants. The latter two were wrecked and lost but the Carolina sailed into the harbor of Port Royal with two small vessels that had joined her from Bermuda and Barbadoes Islands under command of Joseph West. They later cast anchor and sailed into the harbor of the present city of Charleston. By 1670 they started to build a town called Charles Town and Colonel William Sayle, former Governor of Bermuda, was made Governor.

In 1680 a ship load of Huguenots came and built homes in Charles Town, and in 1682 the province was divided into three counties: Berkeley which embraced Charles Town, Craven to the north, and Colleton to the south.

1685 the first Huguenot congregation was organized in Charles Town under the care of Elias Prioleau, and their first house of worship was built in the city about 1687. The present church on the site is the only distinctive Huguenot Church in the United States. This was the case when White wrote "The Making of South Carolina," from which history the above data was copied. It was published in 1911.

As the settlers pushed up the various rivers and streams, the Indians became troublesome. Governor Glenn bought from the Cherokees a piece of land in Upper Carolina Country, where he built Fort Prince George. It stood upon the upper Savannah River near the Indian town of Keowee. Fort Moore had been built farther down the Savannah River where Hamburg now stands, and a third place of refuge named Fort Loudon was erected five hundred miles west of Charles Town. This added protection from the Indians encouraged many of the settlers to immigrate to South Carolina and settle in the Upper Country later. After Glenn retired from office the Cherokees began to make war against the isolated and few settlers, murdering the people, seizing their homes, and capturing Fort Loudon.

In 1693 Thomas Smith, landgrave, was made Governor by the Proprietors and took much interest in the laws that were made for the government of the colony. By his advice the people began to select men to serve on juries in the law courts, in the same way in which they are selected at the present time.

There was much dissatisfaction against the Proprietary Government, because some of the governors they sent out were selfish and unjust. The colonists of South Carolina always knew how to uphold their rights and made the path of an unjust ruler very difficult. Some of the governors, however, were capable and honest men, among the latter class was John Archdale, the Quaker, who held governorship after Thomas Smith, and was succeeded by the worthy and honest Joseph Blake, who was in control from 1696 to 1700.

1697 - The Huguenots were given full rights as citizens, and granted a voice in government.

1706 - Charles Town was attacked by the French and Spanish, who were repulsed by the citizens and Colonel William Rhett, a bold seaman.

1715 - The Yemassee Indians, armed by the Spanish, started an uprising, and 400 settlers were killed including women and children. Governor Craven, with a force of 200 men, drove the Indians to retreat down the coast, but other tribes fought the settlers.

1719 - The Proprietary Government was overthrown. On the 21st of December 1719, the people of South Carolina came together in Charles Town. This was the "Convention of the People," who declared they would no longer obey the demands of the Proprietors. They elected one of their own number Governor of South Carolina. The government of the province was now organized in the name of the King of England, which the King and Parliament sanctioned, and he sent Sir Francis Nicholson to rule in his name from 1721 to 1729. The province was divided into North and South Carolina in 1719.

Early Churches in Charles Town: 1690 - First Episcopal and Congregational Churches were built; 1701 - French Protestant Church was founded; 1731- First Presbyterian was built in Charles Town; 1759 - German Protestant Church was built; 1761 - the first service was performed in St. Michael's Church.

The Upper Country of South Carolina - 1755 Governor Glenn signed a Treaty with the Cherokee Indians, and the Cherokee War ended completely ca. 1761. This Treaty opened the Upper Country of South Carolina to settlers, and the colony began to flourish. It was the beginning of prosperity. Peace had been declared with the Indians, the forts were deserted, and the immigrants began to pour in from Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Maryland. It is said that in a single year more than a thousand families with their effects, horses, cattle, hogs, crossed the mountains and pitched their tents along the frontiers of South Carolina. (Ref: Colonial and Revolutionary History of Upper South Carolina.)

1769 - The Upper Country settled rapidly, and this increase in population and trade necessitated some form of government to relieve the settlers from having to go all the way to Charleston for court business. All wills, deeds, lawsuits, etc. had been registered in Charles Town, and as a concession to frontier demand, the Crown finally approved the Circuit Court Act of 1769, and Districts were established, where court business could be held, and which were more easily reached by the settlers. (Ref: Inventory of the County Archives of South Carolina, No. 41, p. 5)

The Districts set at this time were: Ninety-Six District - Ninety Six Courthouse, Camden District - Camden Courthouse, Cheraws District - Long Bluff Courthouse, Georgetown District - Georgetown Courthouse, Charles Town - Charleston Courthouse, Beaufort District - Beaufort Courthouse. The Crown sent their judges to these six Districts, and held court on these circuits.

Ninety Six District consisted of Abbeville, Edgefield, Laurens, Newberry, Spartanburg, and Union Districts, or sub-districts. Camden District: Clarendon, Clarmont, Richland, Fairfield, Chester, York (formerly called "New Acquisition"), Lancaster, and Kershaw Districts. Cheraw District: Marlborough, Chesterfield, Darlington Districts. Georgetown District: Winyaw (now abolished), Kingston (now Horry), Liberty (now Marion), and Williamsburg Districts. Charleston District: Charleston, Marion, Berkeley, Colleton, and Bartholemew (all abolished later). Beaufort District: Hilton, Lincoln, Granville, Shrewsbury (all abolished). Orangeburg District: Lewishurg District, Orange (abolished). Lexington District: Winton merged with Barnwell later. Greenville District: Established 1786 from lands ceded by the Indians.

Pendleton District: On petition of the settlers, the Legislature in 1789, set off this frontier appendage into a new District cut from Ninety-Six, called Pendleton District, in time to be included in the 1790 Census Schedule of South Carolina. The first court met at the home of General Andrew Pickens on April 2, 1790. A log courthouse and jail was erected on Tanyard Branch, and around this seat of government developed the village of Pendleton, which soon became a center of culture and enterprise.

The early court records of old Pendleton are in the courthouse at Anderson. When the counties of Anderson and Pickens were formed about 1824 and 1827, Pendleton was abolished. Oconee was formed much later. From this section of the Upper Country came the wonderful Indian fighter and Revolutionary soldier, General Andrew Pickens; his brother, Captain Joseph Pickens, who was killed at the Seige of Ninety-Six; his nephew, John Pickens, who was captured by the Tories and British and turned over to the Indians who burned him at the stake; Colonel Robert Anderson; Patrick Calhoun, and his immortal son, John Caldwell Calhoun, the statesman.

In 1785 the Districts of Abbeville, Edgefield, Laurens, Newberry, Spartanburg, and Union lines were defined, and the records began to be filed in their respective log courthouses. When the courthouse of Abbeville was built, the records from the District of old Ninety-Six were carried to Abbeville. The deeds were later burned, but the probate records are now in Abbeville and have been copied and published by Pauline Young.

I know that these Districts, with so many abolished, are confusing to the genealogist, but you will have to learn the state and county histories before you can successfully do genealogy. When the District Courts met, the people who had wills, deeds, etc. had to journey to those old courthouses and file their papers before the Court until 1789, or a little earlier. The present counties were called Districts until the time of the Civil War.

The Land Grants of South Carolina are very interesting and are in the Secretary of State Office in the State Capital in Columbia. One can write the office in Columbia, and they will usually look up a land grant, and quote a price for photostatic copy. In this way one can locate an ancestor in the location in which he settled, by the description of his lands as to streams, neighbors, etc. They usually had to settle near water, on a river or creek, and one would have to follow that body of water before finding what District he settled in. The early maps in the State Archives are helpful for this. Mills' Atlas of early maps gives each District, streams, roads, in some instances names and locations of residents, churches, and meeting houses, as early as 1818 and 1825. Much interesting data can be found in the extant records and old tombstone inscriptions of the old churches.

The W.P.A. copied the wills of South Carolina, and they are in the Archives in Columbia in typescript. The early wills of the following counties were burned: Beauford, Chesterfield, Colleton, Georgetown, Lancaster, Lexington, and Orangeburg. The other 21 county records are good, with the exception of the deeds of old Ninety-Six and Abbeville. The Charleston records are in good shape, including all other county records sent there prior to 1783 or thereabout.

The Census Schedules of South Carolina are complete, beginning with 1790 which was published and is in most libraries. The 1800 through 1850 copies of the Census can be viewed at Cossitt Library in Memphis.

The Archives, under A. S. Salley, Jr., published some ten or twelve volumes covering the payment for services of the South Carolina soldiers called "Stub Entries to Indents for Revolutionary Claims." One can find the name of the Revolutionary ancestor, send the reference to the Archives in Columbia and for a small fee, they will photostate all data in the file submitted in proof of claims, giving their places of residences immediately after the war. Many widows filed claims for the services of their husbands killed in battle.

South Carolina did not require marriage licenses until 1911.

End of Allen County, Kentucky. Article to be continued in April issue.

Please note: Mr. Hughes reads the left-hand side of the census first, then rolls the film back and takes off the right-hand side. This accounts for the house numbers not falling in order. (Editor)

*Editor's Note: Old Purdy, Tennessee is historically famous as the site selected in 1825 for the location of a permanent courthouse and county seat for McNairy County, created in 1823 from a part of the older county of Hardin. By 1830 Purdy was a thriving community of some 250 people. It continued to progress until the Mobile and Ohio Railroad was built four miles west of Purdy in 1858 and 1859 and the community of Bethel Springs Station began to grow there because of its location on the line. The outbreak of the War Between the States completely disrupted the life of the town and in its weakened position two factions began the struggle between "Purdy" and "railroad." Soon after 1870, the County Court began to order elections on the question of removing the county seat to some other place in the county. Some fifteen years were to be spent in making the final decision and the communities of Bethel Springs, Falcon, and New South (located at the site which would later become Selmer) were all considered and debated. There were several burnings in the town of Purdy and many personal fights, all climaxed by the burning of the courthouse in 1881. At least 12 attempts were made to relocate the county seat before the move was finalized in 1890. The cornerstone for the new courthouse at Selmer was laid on June 16, 1891. Many of the leading citizens of Purdy moved to the new town and Purdy was left as it stands today -- a more or less deserted rural village, but a monument to a part of Tennessee history. (See J. Louis Adams, OLD PURDY, reprinted from The West Tennessee Historical Society Papers, Vol. VI, 1952, McCowat-Mercer Press, Jackson, Tennessee, 1952.)
